Biographical / Historical

The Programs Department in the New York Office of the American Academy in Rome is responsible for activities relating to the programs of the Academy, particularly those concerning selection and management of Fellows. The Programs staff facilitates the Rome Prize Competition (publicity, processing of applicants, coordination of the Jury process, administering of Fellowship stipends, and the orientation of new Fellows), Classical Summer School programs, and AAR publications.

Programs developed its current structure in the 1980s when the Academy expanded its staff. The Executive Secretary managed the administrative affairs of the New York office until 1982 when the Academy hired a Communications Assistant and a Fellowships Assistant. The President and Board of Trustees continuously have reviewed and evaluated the mission and policies of the Programs Department. The competition process has undergone much scrutiny which has resulted in a refinement of the jury system and selection process. For example, in the early years at the Academy, architects, landscape architects and artists who were applying for fellowships were required to submit works to the juries in response to a design problem defined by the Academy. Actual original work samples from artists were reviewed by juries, as well.

Currently, juries evaluate the architect's or artist's talent by the viewing of digital images and portfolios -- a process which is less time consuming and which allows the artist or architect a certain amount of freedom and creative control.

As the selection process changed, so did the Department's approach to the Fellowship Program. For instance, publicity efforts to attract new applicants were not aggressively pursued in the early part of this century because the pool of candidates came from a pre-screened group of young men from member institutions. Once the competition became open to more people, Programs staff developed advertising schedules and procedures, such as writing letters and press releases and printing flyers and posters.

In addition to the administration of the Fellowship program, the Programs area has expanded by administering other programs such as the Classical Summer School beginning in 1923 and the Summer Archaeology Training Program in 1990.

As stated in the Annual Report for 1923, the Summer School was created for college graduates who, because of time restrictions due to professional responsibilities as teachers and scholars, could only spend a brief time studying in Rome. In the last 70 years, this program has introduced many hundreds of teachers and graduate students to the principal Roman sites. The Academy's eight-week specialized Summer Program in Italian Archaeology was launched in 1990 for graduate students. With a combination of instruction in archaeological methods and field work, the Program was an important step in implementing suggestions offered by archaeologists for meeting the needs of students, in addition for it being a way of encouraging archaeological activity at the Academy.

The evolution of the Programs Department reflects the development of the American Academy in Rome into an established academic institution. The expanding influence and mission of the Academy is clearly seen through the changes in administration of the Department, the selection process for Fellows, and the development of the Summer School programs.

Scope and Contents

The files of the Programs Department of the American Academy in Rome transferred to the Archives, date from 1895 to 2016. They were collected from files located in the records storage warehouse, from former Director of Fellowship Programs, Buff Kavelman, Director of Fellowship Programs, Karen Rose Gonon, and Programs Associate, Sue Lau. The more recent files are largely fellows files.

Files dating from the early to mid-1990s are the most comprehensive in the collection. While there are noticeable gaps from the mid-1980s and earlier in many record series, such as the Jury files, there are some series which are more comprehensive including Publicity/Announcements files and Applicants files.

The materials consist of administrative records such as correspondence, memoranda, reports, financial information, advertisements, printed notices, lists of names, charts, and applications. General Administration files contain reports evaluating the Programs Department and describing missions and goals. The materials in Programs files roughly outline the many responsibilities of the Programs Department.

The files include:

- information on the application process including forms and correspondence to applicants (SEE Application Forms files and Applicants files)
- applicants evaluations from the juries as they determine Rome Prize winners and alternates (SEE Jury files)
- public relations procedures concerning targeted mailing files and samples of advertisements and announcements of winners (SEE Publicity (Rome Prize) files and Fellows...Press/Publicity files)
- correspondence and guides orienting new Fellows (SEE Fellows/Information Materials files).
- correspondence regarding the coordination of publications (SEE Publications files).
- correspondence detailing the development and management of Rome Prize Fellowships and Classical School scholarships (SEE Fellowship files and Summer Sessions/Classical Association files).
- correspondence outlining the administration of the Classical Summer School and related summer programs (SEE Summer Sessions files).

Controlled Access Headings:

- Rome Prize Competition.

- Rome Prize Fellows
- American School of Classical Studies at Rome

Post-WWII Fellows

Physical Description: 75 Linear Feet

Biographical / Historical

For over a century, the American Academy in Rome has awarded the Rome Prize to support innovative and cross-disciplinary work in the arts and humanities. Each year, the prize is awarded to about thirty artists and scholars who represent the highest standard of excellence and who are in the early or middle stages of their careers. Each Rome Prize winner is provided with a stipend, meals, a bedroom with private bath, and a study or studio.

Scope and Contents

This Sub-Series contains records collected for each Fellow at AAR after World War II. Contents of records may include application materials, letters of recommendation, correspondence, notes, and press clippings.

Affiliated Fellows

Physical Description: 5.5 Linear Feet

Biographical / Historical

In addition to Rome Prize and Italian Fellows, the Academy hosts recipients of fellowships awarded by educational and cultural organizations around the world.

For an extra fee, Member Institutions have the right to name an Affiliated Fellow to be in residence at the Academy for a period of four weeks to three months. Affiliated Fellows receive housing (single room with private bath), meals on the same plan as Rome Prize Fellows, the opportunity to sign up for Academy trips and tours, invitations to Academy events, and access to Academy scholarly resources including the Library, Photographic Archive and the Archaeological Study Collection.

Affiliated Fellows add to the diversity of the Academy's artistic and scholarly community. Affiliated Fellowships are coordinated by the organizations for which they are named.

Scope and Contents

This Sub-Series contains records collected for each Affiliated Fellow at AAR. Records may include correspondence, notes, and press clippings.

Biographical / Historical

The Director of the American Academy in Rome invites distinguished artists and scholars from around the world to reside at the Academy for periods generally ranging from one to three months. Invitations are extended to senior artists and scholars of international standing in the following disciplines: architecture; design; historic preservation and conservation; landscape architecture; literature; musical composition; visual arts; ancient studies; medieval studies; Renaissance and early modern studies; and modern Italian studies.

During their stay, Residents serve as senior advisors to Rome Prize recipients and to other members of the Academy community, and are expected to offer a minimum of one Academy-wide event in their area of expertise: a concert, an exhibition or studio visit, a lecture, a reading, or an instructional walk in Rome. In general Invitational Residencies are for senior figures in their fields, and are by invitation only.

Scope and Contents

This Sub-Series contains records collected for each Resident at AAR. Records may include correspondence, notes, and press clippings.
