Classical Association of the Atlantic States

E. Adelaide Hahn Scholarship (two awards)

In honor of E. Adelaide Hahn, one or two awards of up to $7,000 will be made in the spring toward the cost of study in the summer session of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens or the American Academy in Rome. Applicants must be current CAAS members at the time of application. Preference will be given to members with longevity, precollege teachers, graduate students, and those who have not previously received this award, with priority given to those who live and work in the CAAS region. Scholarship winners are expected to report on their summer study at the CAAS annual meeting in October. For further information, please see the CAAS website.

Amount of the award: approximately $7,000.

To apply: send an email with the subject line “Hahn Scholarship Application” to the chair of the Hahn Scholarship Committee at the email address listed on the website.

The Society for Classical Studies

Coffin Fellowship for Travel in Classical Lands

The Coffin Fellowship is intended to recognize secondary school teachers of Greek or Latin who are as dedicated to their students as the Coffins themselves by giving them the opportunity to enrich their teaching and their lives through direct acquaintance with the classical world. It will support study in classical lands (not limited to Greece and Italy); the recipient may use it to attend an educational program in (e.g., American Academy, American School) or to undertake an individual plan of study or research. It may be used either for summer study or during a sabbatical leave, and it may be used to supplement other awards or prizes. Candidates for the fellowship must have been teaching Latin or ancient Greek at the secondary level (grades 9–12) in North America as a significant part of their academic responsibilities for three years out of the five prior to the award. Membership in the APA is not a requirement for application, although it is expected that applicants will have demonstrated an active interest in the profession and in their own professional development. Selection will be based on written applications by the Coffin Fellowship Committee. Recipients of the award will be expected to file a written report on their use of the fellowship, which the association may include in one of its publications. Check the SCS website for additional details, including application instructions and deadline, which is typically in February.

Amount of award: $3,100.

The Society for Classical Studies

Frank M. Snowden, Jr. Undergraduate Fellowship

The Committee on Diversity in the Profession of the Society for Classical Studies (SCS) invites applications from undergraduate students from historically underrepresented groups across North America for scholarships to be awarded for summer 2025. The purpose of the scholarships is to further students' study of classics or classical archaeology with opportunities not available during the school year. Eligible proposals might include (but are not limited to) participation in classical summer programs or field schools in the Mediterranean or language training at institutions in the US, Canada, or Europe. Candidates will be judged on: (a) their academic qualifications, including demonstrated ability in fields that prepare a student for further study in classics or archaeology; (b) the quality of their proposal; and (c) financial need. The application must be supported by two letters of recommendation. At least one letter of recommendation must include a statement indicating that this is an appropriate candidate for the purposes of this scholarship. See the website for more details.

Amount of award: maximum amount of each award will be $4,500.

Deadline for application: January 20, 2025.

Texas Classical Association

Peter Snetsinger TCA Professional Scholarship

All teachers and professors are encouraged to apply for the $500 TCA Professional Scholarship, which is intended to support projects undertaken by members of the association who have at least two years of full-time classroom teaching experience in classical languages or cultures. The applicant must have been an active TCA member for at least two years. The project may involve attendance at a course, foreign travel (preferably with some specific goals), the creation of materials, or any other worthwhile activity connected to the teaching of classical languages or cultures. Stress is placed on the contribution of the project to the applicant's future skills as a classics teacher. The scholarship must be used within one calendar year from receipt. In addition, a report of the recipient's activities or project will be made at the next TCA fall conference following completion. Recipients will be eligible to reapply after five years.

Amount of award: $500.
